Freeholders Will Vote On Annexation

The Pahokee City Council in an adjourned meeting Monday night again heard arguments for and against the special bill to be introduced in the State Legislature which would permit the city to annex an additional 157 acres in the southwest section should the tract be sold by the State to the highest bidder for residential development only. It was decided to allow free-holders only to vote in the referendum election which would be held after the bill is passed by the Legislature if the State sells the land as planned.

Legislature if the State sells the land as planned.

It was voted that city equipment will be used without charge for the mowing of grass and weeds on lots owned by non-profit civic, fraternal and religious organizations, where such work will improve the general appearance of the city.

At the request of A. J. Gamot a resolution was passed abandoning an alley of no use to the city in the Washington Park Subdivision No. 2.

No. 2.

The upkeep of the decorative fish pond on the city hall grounds was turned over to the parks department, with Mrs. Ruth Meredith, parks supervisor, to be incharge.

A communication was read from the Pahokee Garden Club in which the club went on record as favor-ing a franchise by the city to the Florida Power and Light Company.

Printing Law Is Considered To Control Buying

ORLANDO-Two substitute sec tions to the Florida Printing law proposed by an industrywide committee would provide for centralmittee would provide for central-ized control of state printing pur-chases, according to complete text of the proposal riebased by Joe Linn, president of the Graphic Arts Association of Central Florida. The Orlando group was host to six other trade associations representing all parts of the state at two weekend conferences. On Sat-urday a committee was delegated to draft the finished proposal.

Copies of the proposal have been furnished to Rep. John Mathews, Jr., of Jacksonville, chairman of the legisalture's interim committee the legisalture's interim committee on finance and taxation, and to Governor LeRoy Collins, both of whom have been outspoken in their plea for improved printing purchasing practices for the state. Organizations participating in the industry-wide committee include the Benjamin Franklin Association of Tallahassee, the North Florida Printers Association of Jacksonville, the Greater Tampa Printers Association, the Producing Printers Association of Sarasota & Manatee Counties, Printing Industries of Florida, Inc., and Printing Industry of Greater Miami. Inc.

In a letter to state officials, Malcolm Pittman, Jacksonville, chairman of the industry-wide commit-tee, commented that "the organi-zations who are united in this proposal represent the overwhelming part of the productive capacity of the industry throughout Florida. "The committee took into full consideration the matters of public interest, welfare of the industry and the problems of state admini and the problems of tration."

Charles G. Mullen, Jr., of Tampa, president of Printing Industries of Florida, Inc., said the final draft of the proposal represents a victory for smaller printers throughout the state. "It permits such agencies as commission and state. "It permits such agencies as the Florida Citrus Commission and the Florida Citrus Commission and the state universities to produce and let their own bids, subject to supervision by a central purchasing department."

LeRoy Brewton of Orlando, chairman of the Graphic Arts Association's legislative committee, declared that "the main point is that a uniform procedure is outlined. that a uniform procedure is outlined which will give opportunity for printers regardless of size and geo-graphical location to participate in state printing contracts which they are interested in and able to

The proposal offering substitutes for Sections 283.10 and 283.11 in the present law was presented by Printing Industry of Greater provides for centralized control over the purchasing of printing. A key feature is the hiring of a qualified "czar" to head up a printing purchasing department, and an advisory committee of five to be apvisory committee of five to be appointed by the governor from the ranks of the industry on a geo-graphical basis.

State agencies could receive counsel on printing specifications and assistance in preparing invitations for bids through the proposed printing purchasing depart-

Another key provision is that invitations to bid must be extended to printers in each of five geographical areas in the state. Thus at least five invitations to bid must be extended on all contracts. The present law requires two or more bids.

The proposal would require that The proposal would require that printing used by the state be classified into categories of size, class and quality, and that printers interested in receiving invitations to bid on state work supply a list of facilities in his own plant or available to him through trade sources, treather with any outline of the

Needed Repairs Make Car A Danger

TALLAHASSEE - The Florida Highway Patrol said today there is nothing on the highways more Jangerous than the complacent motorist who operates a vehicle in need

"Have pity on the man who goes about his driving day after day with the attitude that 'I'll get the old buggy fixed up' when the need comes," warned Patrol Command-er H. N. Kirkman.

Many wrecks are caused by people who "just wait" for the need to arise, Kirkman said. In most of those cases, the thing the driver needs most is an ambulance to cart him off to a hospital, if he was lucky, or to the funeral home if he

The patrol joins with other highway safety agencies to emphasize the National Safety Council's theme of the month: Defensive

"Oh yes, defensive driving in-cludes proper car care," said the veteran officer. "No one knows his weteran officer. "No one know his car well enough to know the meaning of all of its grunts and moans," declared Kirkman, and "The best thing to do for a spring housecleaning of your automobile, is take it to your favorite wrench doctor."

Of course, the art of defensive driving includes other aspects equally as important. The average trooper will tell you that the heel under the wheel is the direct cause of many a traffic mix up. This means that if you are a good driver, you are a defensive one—You keep your eye on the other guy, as well as own your own driving duties.

"So as a defensive driver, be alert and be alive, If a roadhog heads your way, give him the road. Let him plow up the roadside, its easier than for him to plow into you," the Patrol advised.

The drink, which as yet is unnamed, was publicly introduced by the Florida Egg Commission earlier this month at a breakfast for the governor and his cabinet to celebrate Egg Month. The Commission describes the new drink as "delicious and very healthful", and its expects its popularity to soar, especially with busy people like Senator, Dickinson who "don't have time to eat breakfast", but recognize the necessity of starting the day well stocked with vitamins and protein,
